

Balance or Fall

Dylan LeBlanc

well i come from the town where boys you better learn to stand tall where it's balance or fall oh darling do you want me at all in the morrow i ride down this road of living more lies i won't put down my guns till the house of the rising sunso let the parlor boys play on my dying day but until then i gotta roam again
so shoot out the windows of who you think i am well i'm nobody's friend and i'll always be a stranger to them and the harlots upstairs well they'll never even notice i was there i'm stealing your queen cause i've always got an ace up my sleeve it may be hard to understand but i like it when they don't mind when i leavei may die like the rest with a rope round my neck but you will always remember my name
it echoes through the canyons and the soft desert rain and i may die like the rest with a rope around my neck and you will always remember my shame
it echoes through the canyon
 and the soft desert rain

Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by <https://damlyrics.com/>