The Second That You Say

Chase Coy

Did you know you have a special way of turning around my terrible days, you make all the bad things go away the second that you say hello. Its the way that you talk, that you laugh, that you smile, if beauty was inches you'd go on for miles, it's the way that you make everything seem worth while, the second that you say hello. It's the way every love song reminds me of you along with the stars and the sunset here too, it's the way that you make the sky seem much more blue, the second that you say hello. So if love is a drug then I guess I'm addicted, all I want is to have yours its making' my heart sick. Goodbye is what broke it and you were what fixed it the second that you said hello.

Lyrics provided by
https://damnlyrics.com/