Still Remains

Buck-O-Nine

she was just 15
just a girl i knew from school she had a tshirt that said fuck authority sat behind me singing, idiots rule and every now and then i think of her and all the things she couldve been or done
it didnt have to end this way i guess it just the way some things end up
you can talk about her
you can call her names
but everything still remains the same you could say she was an outcast or you could say she was a victim of circumstance she lost her mind cause she was different her parents told her it was ok they nevr paid any attention to the girl who was inside
but their words destroyed her mind
