

Straws Pulled At Random (Live in Toronto)

Meshuggah

What solace lies in the arms of fate
-The ill embrace of uncertainty
When did I leave this in other hands
-To be pulled down at chance Ripped away by destiny-claws Am I another of fate's possessions
Dwelling the lie of freedom
Just another straw pulled at random Reclaimed by deceiving time
A silent judgement I can not overrule Drawn back into the origin-vortex Uprooted and ground to dust
Retracted into anti-existence
A magnet repelled by life's polarity Denied the self control of fate we flow suspended in semi-life
Until the ever imminent day when oblivion claims our breath Nowhere indefinitely
Not dead, not alive
Existence-patterns ripped of symmetry as will and fate divide Have I appeased the gods of fate Am I allowed another day Must I die to escape the scanning eyes of death

Songwriters

Tomas Nils Haake; Marten Hagstrom Published by LOBOTOMI MUSIK; WARNER/CHAPPELL MUSIC SCANDINAVIA AB Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>