Many Years

Micky Dolenz

When I called you tonight - said it's such a lovely evening. Won't ya let me drop by, take you for a stroll beneath the bright moonlight, hand in hand, you and me?
From the moment we met, I was taken by your beauty. Now your soft silhouette, your melodious voice, your smile make my knees go weak.
There's a gentle breeze blowin' and I find myself hopin' they'll be many years for showin', I love you.
City blocks of conversation, whispered dreams, consumed elation, crossing bridges, wishing wishes, ooohhh...
On the old cobblestones, I'm aware of people passing. It is so apropos every story and endearing cameo, shown to me, 'neith the trees. Now there's so much to say 'cos I want ta get ta know you, winding down River Way, as we laugh and share I feel my heart give way to you.
There's a gentle breeze blowin' and I find myself hopin' they'll be many years for showin', I love you.
City blocks of conversation, whispered dreams, consumed elation, crossing bridges, wishing wishes, ooohhh...
There's a gentle breeze blowin' and I find myself hopin' they'll be many years for showin', I love you.
There's a gentle breeze blowin' and I find myself hopin' they'll be many years for showin', I love you.
