

Rise Again

Brandi Carlile

When I find the sweet hereafter
Put a blanket on my soul
Cast a shadow on my heart
Slide the chain across my door Ever turning all the seasons
Ever fading all the days
And if there ever was a reason
I just haven't found a way To fall like rain
Fall like rain
Fall like rain
Fall like rain
Only to rise again I was longing for the wind
When the trees begin to sway
But I never grow my wings
No, I never fly away For the anchor of my love
To which my heart is bound
Is the iron for the cage
That keeps me on the ground To fall like rain
Fall like rain
Fall like rain
Fall like rain
Only to rise again Now I'm dreaming to myself
With a tear behind my eye
For a shelter is my mind
In the quiet of the night Ever turning all the seasons
Ever fading all the days
And if there ever was a reason
I just haven't found a way To fall like rain
Fall like rain
Fall like rain
Fall like rain
Only to rise again
