

Been There, Done That

Memphis May Fire

We are all guilty,
but silence will not save our souls.
We are becoming tired and weary,
and our conscience is slowly growing old.

Living by the reason of science.
Never question what we are told.
These words rise above my voice,
but I think you already know.

Now, let's get one thing straight.
I've been there, I've done that,
and I refuse to go back.
Nothing you can do will change my mind.
All trust me, I've been there, I've done that,
and I refuse to go back.
Nothing you can do will change my mind.

We're all searching for something so much greater than what we have.
And these lies have nothing to offer us.
A bigger meaning, a better purpose.
Please trust me, this is worth it.

You don't have to be the person you were yesterday.

Take your seats.
Now, please let me break the silence and say,
what you've been waiting to hear:
I have the answer, I have the cure.

I have the answer, I have the answer.
I have the cure.
I have the answer, I have the cure.
I have the answer, I have the cure.

I'll say it again and again,
I have the cure.
Everything is overly organized,
but you seem strangely out of place.

When will you realize the past can not be erased?
(When will you realize?)

We're all search for something so much greater than what we have.
And these lies have nothing to offer us.
A bigger meaning, a better purpose.
Please trust me, this is worth it.

You don't have to be the person you were yesterday.

I refuse to washh my hands of this,
and forget what needs to be said.
If life is all we are living for, then kill me now.
If life is all we are living for, then kill me now.
