Call Ya Momma

Justin Townes Earle

Call ya momma
Tell her that she coming home tonight
Call ya momma
Tell her I ain't doing you right

You said I could never stand to be alone
Look at you now standing full grown
And you mean to

Call you momma
And tell her come carry you home
Call you momma
And tell her come carry you home

I'm trouble eyes
I couldn't see 'em from the start
Trouble eyes, trouble mind
And trouble heart

You know talk don't change a thing
Sleep caught me up
But nothing to say now

Call your momma
And tell her that nothing's change
Call your momma
And tell here that nothing's change

Don't know why ever thought you could change
Don't flinch when you that pain is hidden in shame
And these old stories always end up the same
The pain is the price you pay

Shame, shame
Wanted to cry change
Goodbye's all we've left to say

Call your momma
Call your momma
Call your momma

Call your momma
