Someday

Flipper

IÂ´m all alone in my room
IÂ´m sitting here near the shelf
I see the mirror on the wall
The things I do are not for my health
I live alone with my lies darker than any night
A fear so real I might die from fright
Until...somedaySo I reach for my death, yes itÂ´s the ultimate one
The needle shines sharp deep gleam into my skin
I feel the relief, I lose all the pain
And when I open my eyes it comes back right again
I start to scream deep from inside
But all that noise just wonÂ´t seem to hide the fact that Someday somedaySo here I sit the bliss lost once again
My mind conjures up images once known as sin
I gather strength to look outside
I see the lives of friends, they run and hide
And now theyÂ´re gone and what they did
So I pray to no God absolve me of no sin
I see your smile, it warms my soul
Reassuring me itÂ´s not our time to goUntil...someday someday somedayAnd when iÂ´m far away from you my dear
I miss so much the feelings we share
And I want to hold on to you so tight
Breathe my hot breath down your neck tonight
Hold on so long the feeling is real
Only one thing can replace that deal
I find the thing that makes my life surreal
A cheap replacement
Because sometimes it feels like love
(repeat 4x)Someday someday someday
