

All That Jazz

Echo & The Bunnymen

Where the hell have you been
We've been waiting with our best suits on Hair slicked back and all that jazz
    Rolling down the Union Jack
    See you at the barricades, babe
    See you when the lights go low, Joe
    Hear you when the wheels turn round
    Someday when the sky turns black
    It appears because it's what I feel
    I know I don't understand
If you ask you know I don't mind kneeling
    But when my knees hurt I like to stand

Instinct is the common lawyer
    A million years won't erase
    Strike that chord, I'm searching for
    Call it a committed race
    No matter, how I shake my fist
    I know I can't resist it
No matter, how you shake your fist
    You know, you can't resist it
    See you at the barricades, babe
    See you when the lights go low, Joe
    Hear you when the wheels turn round
    Someday when the sky turns black

Lyrics provided by
<https://damnlrics.com/>