Hey Marianne

Brian Goss

There's a mystery man on the corner
Selling a paper that's thin
About a man who lives life like a circus
And the monkey that's running with himHey Marianne
Where have you been girl?And a woman, once gold charms adorned her
Put her downfall all on display
A tail of her triumphs and then her pain
Giving pleasure in some modern way
Giving pleasure in some sick wayHey Marianne
Where have you been girl?Another Saturday morning in midtown
A telephone call to the chief
About leaving a hole at the entrance
And breaking away with the thievesAnother mystery man on the corner
Screams prepare for the sacrifice
He said thanks for the change in his hat today
I said thanks for the good adviceHey Marianne
Where have you been girl?
