

The Next Time That You See Me

The Whisnants

I'm ready to move to heaven To a Land so fair and Bright where there is perfect peace in that ever lasting light Jesus has gone to build for me a mansion there I know and the next time that you see me I maybe living in my heavenly home

The next time that you see me
maybe on streets of Gold
next time that you see me
I maybe wearing a brand new robe
maybe kneeling at his feet
or shaking his nail scared hand
the next time that you see me
I maybe living in glory land you may come to visit me knock upon my door you may not get an answer I won't be living there anymore I'm just here for a short while Then I'll be soon be gone for the next time that you see me I may be living in my brand new home

The next time that you see me
maybe on streets of Gold
next time that you see me
I maybe wearing a brand new robe
maybe kneeling at his feet
or shaking his nail scared hand
the next time that you see me
I maybe living in glory land

maybe kneeling at his feet
or shaking his nail scared hand
the next time that you see me

I maybe living in glory land

Lyrics Submitted by Denzil Harper

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnlyrics.com/>