

Diamond

Amanda Falk

Luxury wasted
Beauty untasted
Gold undiscovered in a wasteland of lovers
Used and abandoned
Betrayed and unwanted
Hidden and haunted
She's a diamond in the rough
A diamond in the rough

How do you say good-bye to everything you've known?
How do you leave behind what holds on to you the most?

She's cold and she's jaded
And all hope is faded
Cause where can she turn
And where can she go
When nobody sees and nobody knows
So she sits and she waits in the dark and the cold
She's a diamond in the rough

How do you say good-bye to everything you've known?
How do you leave behind what holds on to you the most?

Held by the ground that she's in she's surrounded
What can get through to her, can she be found
A lost treasure tragedy, does she even know
The value she holds
The truth that's untold

How do you say good-bye?
How do you leave behind?

How do you say good-bye to everything you've known?
How do you leave behind what holds on to you the most?
How do you say good-bye to everything you've known?
How do you leave behind what holds on to you the most?

She's a diamond in the rough
A diamond in the rough
She's a diamond in the rough

A diamond in the rough
