Matthew Dear

All of these days into one.
Awaken to the silence of the sun.
Who can I talk with today?
Why am I still the same? No reward for calling out your name
As I have done time and time again.
You were off in some great distant sun.
I am unfrozen time to shun. All of my sad songs can't make you change.
They'll just keep pushing you further away.
One of your great regrets will be staying in place.
And I can't hold you back from your dreams.
When you figure out what's real, I'll be standing here;
A little bit older but forgiving as the night into day.
