Lightswitch

Jaime Wyatt & Pete Droge

I was put in a round room
And told to sit in the corner
While they wash my brain with a dirty ragI was given a hammer
And told to build a fortress
With walls impossible to penetrateYou're the only thing I need
And you've become the only thing
That keeps me breathing without you I'd beIn a dark place, no lightswitch
An open wound without a stitch
Maybe now you will understandNo matter how stable
The foundation may seem
Everything is crashing down on meWith paper cuts on fingertips
Blackened eyes and broken lips
Forever wounded, it's hard to tellYou're the only thing I need
Whether I fail or succeed
Within my blindness you're all I seeThe morning fog sun burns away
A predator's eye without its prey
Maybe now you will understandI won't quit on you
No, I won't quit on you ever
I won't ever leave
Ever, ever, ever, ever
