

Once Again

Harriet Goldberg

Once again I see that certain smile
Once again you're with me for a while
I pretend you are here by my side
Once again
Once again, we wonder through a dream
Once again a sweet familiar scene round the bend
Love keeps calling our names
Once again
I still remember the first time we met
And I'm pretty sure of the place
That old garden wall
It was early one fall
I was watching a smile light up your face
Once again your lips are kissing mine
Once again a sweet September wine
And then I remember you're gone
You painted my world
You sang my first song
And then I remember you're gone
Once again
Once again your lips are kissing mine
Once again a sweet September wine
And then I remember you're gone
You painted my world
You sang my first song
And then I, I remember you're gone
Once again

Lyrics Submitted by Holli M

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnyrics.com/>