

White Flag

Pyrrhon

It's amazing what you can give up
If you just want to survive
You'll discard cherished convictions
And spread yourself wide for your ravagers
When they approach to defile you Voyeurs hiding behind the skyline
Peer down at me, but I try to ignore them
They track me through the aisles larded with treasure
And mock me at night when I'm begging for silence
Don't want to be held responsible
You can take whatever you want from me
Just make sure I don't notice
You can take whatever you want from me And the waltzes play on in halls of gold
While the misfortunates slop back and forth
Between the flophouses, clinics and prisons
Until their weight carves ruts in the earth Don't want to be held responsible
You can take whatever you want from me
Just make sure it doesn't hurt
You can take whatever you want from me This is the world we've made for ourselves
But our acid abstentions
Will dissolve the limestone beneath us
And when the sinkhole opens up
We won't deserve to be pulled out It's amazing what you can give up
