

Contradiction

Sevendust

I learned a lesson on my first day
You were far too divine to say
How can you hold on to a mistake?
And I told you why Don't defend what you didn't say
Another taste for conflict anyway
Pretend again who you are today
To give a reason to contradict again You were forever with a bitter mind
And the darkness is consuming
You talk the bullshit and you rob the blind
Now you live a lie Don't defend what you didn't say
I've got another taste for conflict anyway
Pretend again who you are today
And try to give a reason to contradict again Don't defend what you didn't say
I've got another taste for conflict anyway
Pretend again who you are today
And try to give a reason to contradict again I learned a lesson on my first day
You were far too divine Don't defend what you didn't say
Another taste for conflict anyway
Pretend again who you are today
To give a reason to contradict again Don't defend what you didn't say
I've got another taste for conflict anyway
Pretend again who you are today
And try to give a reason to contradict again

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>