Embrace

Frankie Cocozza

Feels like a bittersweet pity
It's time to face this city
So many shoulders that I need but it feels like there's nothing left to leaveI can see reflections in the river
I can hear the memories in the mirror
Same four walls that watched it all begin I'm slowly caving inDon't say i'm hiding cause i'm not,
and I love everything I've got,
I'm just looking for that embra-a-a-a-ace
They say i'm running, it's not true
I promise, I will always love you
I'm just looking for that embra-a-a-a-ace
Ebra-a-a-a-aceLast chances better late than never
No one said it was destined to be better
Maybe i'll come crawling back to you
But for the moment i'm coolLook once again who's being selfish,
But bright lights and dreams are on the market Wasn't me, it was the seaside who run awayDon't say i'm hiding cause i'm not,
and I love everything I've got,
I'm just looking for that embra-a-a-a-ace
They say i'm running, it's not true
I promise, I will always love you
I'm just looking for that embra-a-a-a-ace
Ebra-a-a-a-aceI wonder if the streets are gunna get me
I wonder if I stay will they forget me?
Can I call you home?
Can I call you home?
Can I call you home?
Can I call you home?(chorus)
