Whispers (Acoustic)

Passenger

Well I've got open eyes
And an open door
But I don't know what I'm searching for
I should know by nowWell I've a big old heart
This I know for sure
But I don't know what my love is for
I should know by nowWell I wait in line
So I can wait some more
'Til I can't remember what I came here for
But I can't leave now
'Cause I've a light that shines
And a love so pure
But I don't know what to use them for
I should know by nowWell I spent my money, I lost my friends, I broke my mobile phone
3 a.m. and I'm drunk as hell, and I'm dancing on my own
Taxi-cabs ain't stopping, and I don't know my way home
Well it's hard to find a reason, when all you have is doubts
Hard to see inside yourself when can't see your way out
Hard to find an answer when the question won't come out
