

Winterbreak

MUNA

You say
I say
Last time
This time You say
I'd best get going 'cause it's getting late
And I say we don't know what comes 'cause that's on the way
But the last time that we made love, you left in tears
So this time you're wondering how to leave it here
I haven't seen you since last winter break
And I know that I broke your heart
But oh, he's the smart one, oh, he's so intelligent
He must know that I took it hard Oh, baby I think we both know
This is a love that we won't get right
Still if you said that you wanted
I know I'll always have one more try You say
I say
Last time
This time You pull that face like "here we go again"
So I pull
A flask out the back of my jeans and then you take a pull
And in my mind we're in my bed and I'm pulling
Your sweater up over your head
And I haven't seen you since last winter break
And I know that you hate how that went
But oh, he's a smart one, oh, he's so intelligent
He must know what's happening Oh it's magnetic, isn't it?
The sense of something underneath the surface
When you're laying on thin ice
Just a little bit masochistic
Attentive to the lips as the parting of your lips and the ache in your eyes
But I think I'm gonna kiss you Oh, baby, I think we both know
This is a love that we won't get right
Still, if you said that you wanted
I know I'll always have one more try Oh, baby I think we both know
This is a love that we won't get right
Still if you said that you wanted
I know I'll always have one more try You say
I say
Last time

This time

Songwriters

CATHERINE GAVIN, NAOMI MCPHERSON, JOSETTE MASKIN, TIJS M. VERWESTPublished by Lyrics Â© Universal Music Publishing Group Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>