Roll Up

Brooke Lynne

(Verse)

Just need an empty canvas,
Something just for ventin',
I've been through so much shit and,
I can no longer stand it,
the high is not long lastin',
Reality seems to vanish for a minute,
When I start to panic,
I take a hit of this shit,
Then I think about my child and,
I think about my man and,
I think about my talent,
My purpose in this life,
the reason I should fight,
I gotta keep it goin',
Perfect time to roll it,
Clarify my focus,
Take this time to zone and,

(Chorus)

Turn the world off, off, off, off, off
Turn the world off, world, world, world off
Turn the world off, off, off, off, off
Turn the world off, world, world, world off

(Verse)

I try to find a way to not take it out on you,
But suddenly you blink and you give me reason to,
Can't we agree that I do right by you?
Must you give in when the devil tries you?
I'm all over the place,
Can't seem to locate a positive space,
Surrounded by only negativity,
I'm crashin' and burnin',

I need a release,
I need to release,
Any relief,
Burden so heavy weighin' down on me,
Too heavy on me,
I need some relief,
A little weight off as I'm sparkin' these trees

(Break)

(Bridge)

I'm poppin' on bitches like billboards or buildings,
I'm losing my mind tryina make me some millions,
Wish the days could go back like in the beginning,
I gotta find a way and one direction's appealin',
So believ I'll be winning,

(Chorus)

Turn the world off, off, off, off, off
Turn the world off, world, world, world off
Turn the world off, off, off, off, off
Turn the world off, world, world, world off

(Outro)

Lyrics Submitted by Brooke Lynne

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/