When You Run from Love

Sawyer Brown

Love up and beat a path to my back door
I could always walk away before
I thought, I could get away untouched
But you think to much when you run from love
When you run from loveWhen you run from love
The quickest way ain't fast enough and the
Trains and the planes will let you down
If you hide your eyesYou make a chain of pain and lies
And you know that
You're only losing ground
When you run from loveMy heart never beat the beat of a losing kind
Could always touch the flame and not feel the fire
Your heart ain't the place, you want shelter from
When you run from love
When you run from loveWhen you run from love
The quickest way ain't fast enough and the
Trains and the planes will let you down
If you hide your eyesYou make a chain of pain and lies
And you know that
You're only losing ground
When you run from loveWhen you run from love
The quickest way ain't fast enough and the
Trains and the planes will let you down
If you hide your eyesYou make a chain of pain and lies
And you know that
You're only losing ground
When you run from loveWhen your runnin' from love
