

The 7th Day of July 1777

King Diamond

Count De LaFey
Uncovered his cheating wife
Nine months of loving and sharing
Oh, it was a bastard child
How could he have been so blind? No bastard baby
Will inherit what's mine
Another one of her affairs
Had left him in despair So he pushed her down the stairs to die
"No", she cried
In 1777, on the 7th day of July The Countess broke her neck
And the embryo came out dead
Then he burned his beloved wife
And the embryo he gave a name
Abigail you must rest in shame, rest in shame Obsessed
With a strange idea
He wanted to mummify
The girl for the future to find and he did So he pushed her down the stairs to die
"No" She cried
In 1777, on the 7th day of July

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>