Love Your Way

Powderfinger

Got to keep moving to stay warm, 'cause I'm freezing in this room
And if I prove no good here I'll skip to where I should
It's only an imaginary vigil that we keep
You salvage what you need I'll take the love you leaveI love your way, but I can't explain
What made me changeWading in deeper ever deeper as I go
I drown the whole idea as I drift away from you
It's only an imaginary vigil that we keep
You salvage what you need I'll take the love you leaveI love your way, I can't explain
What made me change
I love your wayAnd as the memory gathers dust, buried in its crust
Are the remains of what we've done and the seeds of what we just begun
The tapping of the rain beats a corrugated drum
And the city glow well it pulses on to the city humAnd as the memory gathers dust, buried in its crust
Are the remains of what we've done and the seeds of what we just begun
The tapping of the rain beats a corrugated drum
And the city glow well it pulses on to the day is doneI love your way, I can't explain
What made me change
