

Another Night

Heavens

Another night with your head in the oven
Simmering like a heat wave over you
Sweat drops hiss at the bottom
Blood droplets cook like glue They left you with nothing
And left me for dead
Went out and lost your senses
Went out and lost my head In deceit, disbelief, they're laughing
As we faint in these houses burning down
In the smoke and the heat we're gasping
For a breath of some fresh air in this town So save for me, the pleasantries
How pathetic this must sound
To patiently still be craving
A taste of the good life in this town They left you with nothing
And left me for dead
Went out and lost your senses
Went out and lost my head In deceit, disbelief, they're laughing
As we faint in these houses burning down
In the smoke and the heat we're gasping
For a breath of some fresh air in this town We'll make believe
That we still dream
Of one day finally getting out They left you with nothing
And left me for dead
Went out and spent your senses
Went out and sold my head They left you with nothing [x2]
They left you with nothing
And left me for dead
And they left us gasping
For one last breath So save for me, the pleasantries
How pathetic this must sound
To patiently still be craving
A taste of the good life in this town
