

Evangeline

Bad Religion

She came from Heaven, well, there's no point belaboring then
I've seen some trouble and I must admit that I'm in demand
I confront rejection with magnetic good intentions and yet Hey Jack, get back, in fact don't do that I act sharp but feel uncertain 'cause next time it could be curtains Evangeline, conspirator so fine, lend me your faith 'cause mine is broken
Compared to mine, what is your crime, Evangeline?
Now just to be certain let's be sure to set the record straight
I could use an angel but I don't intend to split up the take Never go for treason but I got reasons that don't warrant debate
My act's intact and in fact you're not all that You act sure, but you're uncertain 'cause next time it could be curtains Evangeline, conspirator so fine lend me your faith 'cause mine is broken
Compared to mine, what is your crime, Evangeline?
Well, there's no use turning back
It's already much too late when the house is burning Evangeline, conspirator so fine lend me your faith 'cause mine is broken
Compared to mine, what is your crime, Evangeline?

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnyrics.com/>