

Shadows Break

Jules & The Polar Bears

Realityâ€™s a shadow
I climb it like a ladder
to escape the forms the city takes Shadows break
the shadows break

I fell asleep
with the rain on the porch
One day Iâ€™m soaked the next day Iâ€™m scorched Everything rocking back and forth
in my life these days

Depression is crouching around every turn Youâ€™ve got to exploit every small thing you learn Itâ€™s hard just to get to that place you can earn some peace inside

Here in the city
electric means fun Kilowatts buzzinâ€™
right thru everyone Sets of eyes zoom around just to make or break the current And sometimes I think when I just canâ€™t get strong Itâ€™s fifty to fifty anythingâ€™s right or wrong Faces light up like slow blinking neon
in my mind at night

Realityâ€™s a shadow
to escape the forms the city takes
But the shadows break against each wall

in every hall
Shadows break

An ambulance cries
for its passenger in back Everyone moves
but no hearts react Oh I love this city
like a mischievous cat â€™cause it troubles you and keeps you alive Your great instincts get fooled
by an innocent stranger â€™cause instincts somehow seem to magnify danger in a city thatâ€™s filled up with city arrangers Youâ€™ve got to arrange yourself
