

The Wax Between the Wicks!

The Happiest Guys in the World

One summer night
The sound of far-off laughter
Brings my heart back
To the time when you were mineÂ
The shiny days we shared
And loved and laughed and dared
Swim through my mind
Like Goldfish and wine

Cool autumn days
The memory of you
Has not gone away
It shows up every day
Like the dog at the door
That always wants more

Cold winter 'morn
I found your beeper number
I'll always be near
When you awaken in your slumber
The eyes you once adored
Will bore through your door
Peek through your blinds
One day you will be mine againÂ

Ode to the soul
That breaks but does not bend
Life is a candle
That's lit at both its end
So, burn with me and set us both free
Together we'll be the wax between the wicks
