

Catching On

Dynamite Boy

i may not be the smartest guy but i can always smell a lie and there is something going on my live has tortured me at times that's why i write these simple lines to keep from getting too far gone i never had the time to call it only mine there's never a chance, i'm always in a bind and when the day is done and the cards have been dealt all i can say is i'm catching on to what can tear me down i'm catching on
        to what can tear me down
        i hope i never have to say that i regret a single day 'cause life's a lesson that you're taught i'll try to hold my head up high lift my fists up to the sky and say i know i always fought

Lyrics provided by <https://damnlyrics.com/>