The Gold

Manchester Orchestra

Couldn't really love you any more
You've become my ceiling
I don't think I love you anymore
That gold mine changed you
You don't have to hold me anymore
Our cave's collapsing
I don't wanna be me anymore
My old man told me
"You don't open your eyes for a while
You just breathe that moment down."
Forty miles out of East Illinois of my old man's heart attack
I believed you were crazy
You believed you loved meI don't wanna bark here anymore
Black hills, the
Wasn't really dangerous for us
We just catch you coughing
What the hell are we gonna do?
A black mile to the surface
I don't wanna be here anymore
It all tastes like poison
Can't open your eyes for a while
You just breathe that moment down
Forty hours out of Homestake
And I'm trying to translate you againI believed you were crazy
You believed you loved me
You and me, we're a daydream
So lose your faith in me
Can't open your eyes for a while
You just beat that moment down
You can't open your eyes for a while
You just breatheI believed you were crazy
You believed you loved me
You and me, we're a daydream
So lose your faith in me
Lose your faith in me
Oh, lose your faith in me
