My Ashes

Porcupine Tree

All the things that I needed And wasted my chances I have found myself wantingWhen my mother and father Gave me their problems I accepted them allNothing ever expected

I was rejected

But I came back for moreAnd my ashes drift beneath the silver sky Where a boy rides on a bike and never smilesAnd my ashes fall on all the things we said On a box of photographs under the bedI will stay in my own world

Under the covers

I will feel safe insideA kiss that will burn me

Cure me of dreaming

I was always returning And my ashes find a way beyond the fog And return to save the child that I forgotAnd my ashes fade among the things unseen And a dream plays in reverse on piano keysAnd my ashes drop upon a park in Wales Never-ending clouds of rain, and distant sails... distant sails
