

Tuna in the Brine

Silverchair

I fondle keys to my heart when everyone's heart
Seems so calm
And you found the lock
To my dorm and opened the door to my trust
Fund my vestry
The light in my darkest hour is fear
Denies me of anything good so
Don't lose your heart you'll need it
You'll have to take another pill and tell another lie
And lie amongst your lies like tuna in the brine. Take everything that you're not and don't be so
Scared to tamper (temper) with (temper) "tampered with" evidence (tamper)
Cause you'll come along for the sun if you come at all
To lose your heart you'll have to take, take and take. Painting a lie seeing the colors but you seem Closer to everything Closer now than we ever have been We're closer now than we ever should (we) be Closer now than we've ever been before
Closer to everything

Songwriters

JOHNS, DANIEL Published by

Lyrics © Sony/ATV Music Publishing LLC Song Discussions is protected by U.S. Patent 9401941. Other patents pending.

Lyrics provided by

<https://damnllyrics.com/>