All the Luck In the World

Neal Casal

You see the choice in front of you
And though it's hard to make
You feel you will come throughYou feel how everyone has changed
But they know who you are
And they're watching what you doAnd they say that they wish you all the luck in the world
And they say that they'll miss you when you're goneYou walked through their frozen worlds
You knew they would come down
As soon as you came toYou left them standing all around
The ghost that had been gone
The one they thought they knewAnd they said that they wished you all the luck in the world
And you know that they love to see you fallYou tried to do the best you could
It wasn't quite enough
But what else could you do?To find a way to make this real
A way to find your own
A way to stay trueAnd they say that they wish you all the luck in the world
And you know that they'd love to see you fall
