The Wishbone

The Veils

I said I wanted summer and the morning brought the sun
I said I need a lover and by the next night I had one
I said I wanted a hurricane and the wind blew hard and the wind blew strongCareful what you wish for Tearing back the wishboneI wished to live forever but ain't that hard for you and me
There ain't no heart at the centre of the earth far as I can see
Now I think it's time that you lay your head in the bed you've madeCareful what you wish for Tearing back the wishbone
