Coming Home

Ginger Millermon

My tears are flowing freely now
My heart just breaks in two
I whisper your name down on my knees
Lord I'm coming home to you
Peace has been eluding me
As I wandered here and there
The worries and the cares of life
Have become too much to bear
How did I lose sight of you and turn from what is true
Open wide your arms Oh Lord I'm coming home to you
Coming home, I'm coming home
Back to where i started from Oh so long ago
Coming home, I'm coming home
It's so good to know that no matter where I go
You would always let me come back home
Dried my tears and heal my heart
As your love comes flowing through
You've given me another start
Lord I'll come back home to you
My past and all its failures
Have all been washed away
You gather me into your arms
And I know I'm here to stay
Your grace and your forgiveness
Have cleansed by heart in new
Now keep my eyes on you Oh Lord
I've come back home to you
Coming home, I'm coming home
Back to where i started from Oh so long ago
Coming home, I'm coming home
It's so good to know that no matter where I go
You would always let me come back home
It's so good to know that no matter where I go
You would always let me come back, come back home
