Forget

Megan Slankard

Two cigarettes glowed on the front porch swingThe wind picked up and brought her closer to him
His sweet whisper is like a double fudge sundae
And the credits rolled, her sigh had a musical bend
So far so good, she watched the summer finally endAt least I'm not so good at rememberingStrolled from his side, she closed her eyes
She blew hot air into her hands, she forgot a jacket
There's not much to do and there's so little time
There's a lot to remember but more to forgetShe thinks she has been making strides
Works much better by telling lies likeEasy to forget if you can't remember it
It's so easy to forget what I've done to you
It's so easy to forget if you can't remember it
It's so easy to forget if you really want toTwo silhouettes danced near a candle flameWore a smile 'cause it was a special occasion
Break out a laugh but she hasn't wanted to yet
Not much to do in this conversation
There's a lot to remember but more to forgetShe thinks she has been making strides
Works more better by telling lies likeIt's so easy to forget if you can't remember it
And it's so easy to forget what I've done to you
It's so easy to forget if you can't remember it
It is so easy to forget if you really want to
