Say the Words

Morgan James

We both know that it's over and the daylight is finding us soon still I wait for some honesty between us to help us get out of this roomAnd of all the things That you've said to me
There's still one thing that I'm missing
No more long goodbyes
Don't apoloigizeOpen the pages where I've been erased
Don't make me guess by the look on your face
Open your heart
Just let me see
There ain't no place for me
Won't you say the wordsI'm so tired
Of your tenderness
And your willingness to ignore the mess you made
Can't you stop
Look me in the eyes
It ain't no suprise
Just tell me what i need to hearAnd of all the things
That you said to me
There's still one thing that i'm missing
No more long goodbyes
Don't apologizeOpen the pages where I've been erased
Don't make me guess by the look on your face
Open your heart
Just let me see
There ain't no place foe me
Won't you say the words
That a man would say
Won't you tell me you don't love me
And just let me walk away
Since I fell you I've been fallin apart
So tell me in the end what you knew from the startOpen the pages where I've been erased
Don't make me guess by the look on your face
Open your heart
Just let me

There ain't no place for me
Won't you say the words
Won't you say words
Won't you tell me
Won't you say the words
