

Remember Me

Lucky Dube

Daddy, where ever you are remember me
In what ever you do I love you
Daddy, where ever you are remember me
In what ever you do I love you You left for the city many years ago
Promised to come back and take care of us
Many years have gone by now
Still no sign of you, daddy Mother died of a heart attack
Many years ago when she heard
That you were married again
Now I'm the only one left in the family Daddy, where ever you are remember me
In what ever you do I love you
Daddy, where ever you are remember me
In what ever you do I love you Wandering up and down the streets of Soweto
No place to call my home
I tried to find you many years ago
But the women you're married to was no good at all Daddy, where ever you are remember me
In what ever you do I love you
Daddy, where ever you are remember me
In what ever you do I love you Daddy yo Daddy, where ever you are remember me
In what ever you do I love you
Daddy, where ever you are remember me
In what ever you do I love you Daddy, where ever you are remember me
In what ever you do I love you
Daddy, where ever you are remember me
In what ever you do I love you Daddy, where ever you are remember me
In what ever you do I love you
Daddy, where ever you are remember me
In what ever you do I love you
