Curious

Holly Brook

Someone tell me what to do
I feel like I must be a fool
For ending up right back at the start
The things that we don't comprehend
Are laughing at my mind again
I think that I think too hard
And I don't give enough credit to my heart
I am so damn curious to know
And there are too
Many unanswered questions
That we hold on to
I've put my theories to the test
You know I've tried to do my best
But maybe, we weren't meant to strike gold
And sometimes things that you ignore
Are all the things, I'm looking for
Will I learn to let go?
Give into love and listen to my soul
I am so damn curious to know

And there are too
Many unanswered questions
That we hold on to
Portraits of your loved ones
Are more than what you see
All the elements they capture
Are more to you than me
A different dimension we've yet to define
And there's a forest to cut
Through with thorns and vines
And there is no reason to try
'Cause I am so damn curious to know
And there are too
Many unanswered questions
I am so damn curious to know
And there are too
Many unanswered questions
That I hold on to like you
