I Shouldn't Be Singing This Song

Nick Roes

I shouldnâ€™t be singing this song,
Canâ€™t help but feel that itâ€™s wrong,
Still I canâ€™t help but dream,
Of the way it might be,
And I shouldnâ€™t be singing his song.

But I sure like the way that you smile,
And I really admire your style,
And my thoughts run away
How I might love you some day,
And I shouldnâ€™t be singing this song.

A heart doesnâ€™t know where itâ€™s not sâ€™posed to go
And my mind doesnâ€™t stay where it should.
Still I canâ€™t help but wonder, in the spell Iâ€™m under
If it really could be that good.

I shouldnâ€™t be thinking like this,
What you would be like to kiss,
And I imagine the way
That I might love you some day,
But I shouldnâ€™t be thinking like this.

No I shouldnâ€™t be feeling this way.
There isnâ€™t much more I can say.
Oh, it never could be
But I would sure like to see.
And I shouldnâ€™t be feeling this way.

A heart doesnâ€™t know where itâ€™s not sâ€™posed to go
And my mind doesnâ€™t stay where it should.
Still I canâ€™t help but wonder, in the spell Iâ€™m under
If it really could be that good.

I shouldnâ€™t be singing this song,
Canâ€™t help but feel that itâ€™s wrong,
Still I canâ€™t help but dream,
Of the way it might be,
And I shouldnâ€™t be singing this song.
I shouldnâ€™t be singing this song.
