Jupiter

Blackfield

Once we were young, we had no plans
What simplicity of love
We used to get it, to get it all
We weren't scared to fail and fallNow all I can do is to stand
And watch those new boys in the game
How they're laughing and having fun
Making rules under the sunI won't win her pretty eyes tonight
It's been so long since I played it right
I'll get to Jupiter and halfway back
Before she'll even notice I'm around
They used to call me the city queen,
But now God's playing his jokes on me
I'm all alone, far from the city
I've got no room, no time for dreamsI won't win her pretty eyes tonight
It's been so long since I played it right
I'll get to Jupiter and halfway back
Before she'll even notice I'm around
Once we were young, we had no plans
What simplicity of love
We used to get it, to get it all
We had no time to fail and fall
