Thoughtlife

Emery

And my heart left my chest so forgive me
As you leave to find that next something new
But I can't for the life of me remember
When you changed your words from
I love you to saying you don't knowJust know that you can't take back what you've said
Darling I'm not in the forgiving mood
You kept on replying it was all in my head

Well, you're just a liar and I've got the proof

I've got the proofSo with these few words you'll erase me

Two years of our lives meant nothing to you

But this fool that you made of me has a lesson learned

You can't trust a lover who was never a friendJust know that you can't take back what you've said

Darling I'm not in the forgiving mood

You kept on replying it was all in my head

Well, you're just a liar and I've got the proof

I've got the proofI would have offered my life

Taken you home, made you my wife

But hearing you now filling your mouth

With the cowards lies, you're just a disguise

Of the girl of my dreams but I know she's waiting for meSo I'll open my eyes to the day that's before me And leave here to find that next something new

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/