

Making Up and Breaking Up

Sharon Jones and the Dap-Kings

I been laying night after night
You leave me before I see the morning light
I always say you're welcome no more
But when you knock I open up my door I say

Get up, get up, get up

And get out

I say

Get up, get up, get up

And get out

No one can know you are here
For you have shed so many tears
No one can know that you are here
For you have shed so many tears
All my friends they ask me about you
I swear up and down that we are through

Oh, if only what I say is true

Why can't you find someone new
Get up, get out...
