

Down

Haute

Simmer down,
Hush now child.
Youâ€™re a big girl now, keep your head off the ground.
I know heâ€™s still,
and youâ€™re upset,
But itâ€™s getting late, what good is this?

Oh building these walls has taken so many years
Who are you to come near and use all of my fears
to break them down, down, down
to break them down.

I hear them too, howling at your feet.
Though these wolves sure are hungry, who are we to take flight?

Oh building these walls has taken so many years
Who are you to come near and use all of my fears
to break them down, down, down
to break them down.

Oh building these walls has taken so many years
Who are you to come near and use all of my fears
to break them down, down, down
to break them down.
