

Cross Your Fingers

Laura Marling

Look down on the body that you have grown
Mountains stand around you they're not your own.
When white squares and bodies are all you see

Since you broke down
Since I broke down
Since we broke down

[Chorus]

Now I jump into your grave and die
Now my word you'll give up your whole life for me
And you'll be reborn big and stronger and less alive

Cross your fingers hold your toes
We're all gonna die when the building blows
Cross your fingers hold your toes
We're all gonna die when the building blows

And the house you were born in
Is crumbling at the corners
Sagging skin and feet of crows
Feet of crows

[Chorus]
