

Gravity

Jen Woodhouse

Can I be a safe house
Will you be my safety net
Tell me how far can we fly till we hit the ground
When dose the vision blur
And do the lights go out
Tell me dose the music stopped playing to silence sound

Hey itâ€™s been lovely
He says to me, eloquently
Why does this scene seem to always play out

Well Iâ€™m not going to fake this
No, Iâ€™m not going to say Iâ€™m OK
Iâ€™m taking charge
And Iâ€™m changing your ways
Open the floodgates
Let your storm wash over me
Will you alter my reality

Heâ€™s in his heart again
Circling around again
I thought Iâ€™d pushed you away and told to leave
Or did I get that wrong
And was it just a dream
Tell me did you see yourself out of my grief

There must be something I been missing all of this time
When can I finally say:
I found my way home

Iâ€™m done playing the victim
Iâ€™ve thrown myself away
Iâ€™m through reading you over
And Iâ€™m turning the page
Open the floodgates
Let your storm wash over me
Will you alter my reality
Iâ€™ll let you hold me down until I canâ€™t breathe
So that I may a fall into your gravity

fall into your gravity

Can I be your safe house
Will you be my safety net
Tell me how far can we fly till we hit the ground
