Strange Girl

The Zolas

You were the deep well
in earth-and-ocean class
and on the days you showed Iâ€™d try to make you laugh.
How cliques drift and
converge in with a crash
And there we were, desk to desk
A young mountain and a strange girl.

You're a strange girl.
Strange girl
You're a strange girl.

And then we met again at university
you said I came to you in a heavy dream.
Life in a Glass House, you said was your secret theme.
Sometimes you creep me out
have I ever told you youâ€™re a strange girl?

You're a strange girl.
Strange girl
You're a strange girl.

We were silver moths
around a naked bulb
on my parentsâ€™ porch that night
it was love x2

and it kept moving and now
I know you oh so well
since we were 15
so well I feel my joints
when your weatherâ€™s shifting.
Iâ€™ll be your confidante
across the continents.
You may one day be queen
but to me youâ€™ll always be that strange girl.

You're a strange girl.
Strange girl

You're a strange girl.

I know you oh so well
since we were 15
so well I feel my joints
when your weatherâ€™s shifting.
Iâ€™ll be your confidante
across the continents.
You may one day be queen
but to me youâ€™ll always be that strange girl.

Lyrics submitted by Micheaaal.

Lyrics provided by
https://damnlyrics.com/