

Rise Up

Kathy Mar

Oh rise up, Rise up my fair one,
To the shades your price I paid,
I have walked the lands of chaos and the elder lords betrayed
My steed is swift as lightning lingers, my sword is sharp as poison death
My cloak is warm and will protect you, my song is faint upon your breath

Oh rise up, Rise up my fair one,
I have combs to bind your hair,
I have gems to light your fingers,
I have furs to warm my lair
Here are silks from ancient china, fans an empress yearned to own
Here are gifts from ancient Egypt, that I offer to atone

Oh rise up, Rise up my fair one,
For the moon is risen high,
It is time to wake my dear one,
It is time for sleep to die
Shack off the dreams of men that haunt you, demons dear must not be coy
Open wide your eyes in wonder, taste again my love's dark joy
