Memory Train

Rex Allen Jr.

Well I might take the train if I ever see you again
Well I might take the train if I ever see you again
I might live for tomorrow, but my eyes fill with sorry
All I'm asking from you is tell me please what to do
All I'm asking from you is tell me please what to do
I might live for tomorrow will my eyes fill with sorryAnd I keep getting away from you on that memory train
And I keep getting away from you on that memory trainWell I might take the train if you say my love is in vain
Well I might take the train if you say my love is in vainHow I've tried to forget you but I don't think I want toAnd I keep getting away from you on that memory train
And I keep getting away from you on that memory trainAnd I keep getting away from you on that memory train
And I keep getting away from you on that memory train
And I keep getting away from you on that memory train
And I keep getting away from you on that memory train(Memory Train)
(Memory Train)And I keep getting away from you on that memory train(Memory Train)
(Memory Train)And I keep getting away from you on that memory train(Memory Train)And I keep getting away from you on that memory train

Lyrics provided by https://damnlyrics.com/